

Sophie's Masterpiece by Eileen Spinelli

J E Spi

Sophie is no ordinary spider. She's an artist who spins wonderful webs. But no one at Beekman's Boardinghouse likes spiders. They don't appreciate Sophie's artwork until at last, old and tired, she weaves her final masterpiece.

Mailing May by Michael O. Tunnell

J E Tun

In 1914, because her family cannot afford a train ticket to her grandmother's town, May gets mailed and rides the mail car on the train to see her grandmother.

The House in the Mail by Rosemary and Tom Wells

J E Wel

In 1927 Emily's father brings home a catalog that will change their lives forever. Inside are pictures of houses—wonderful houses that feature all the latest amenities. The most exciting part is when the house arrives on a freight train ready to be assembled. Emily and her family just need to pick the right one.

Family Reading at the Vineland Public Library

Need a good way to spend time together as a family—how about reading together?

Story Time Tips

- One of the best ways to encourage a love of reading is to have regular times each day for sharing books with your children.
- Establish a special time for reading together. Turn off the TV, radio and computer and immerse yourselves in a great book.
- Find a quiet, well-lit spot where you can sit comfortably with your children.
- Both you and your child can pick out books at the Vineland Public Library. The Children's Librarian will be happy to help you find fun books.

Additional Tips

Remember story time doesn't have to end when your child learns how to read on her own. A child's listening level is two grade levels above his reading level. This continues through high school. You just need to find something to pique your child's interest.

Show enthusiasm while reading the book. Get involved with and excited about the story. Be expressive.

Be dramatic. Help the book come to life.

Interact and involve your child.

Read with rather than to your child.

Most importantly, have fun!
